Minister Inkosi Mzamo Buthelezi mourns the passing of the chair of the Public Sector Bargaining Council, Ms. Ingrid Dimo.

A seasoned labour law and industrial relations expert, Ms. Dimo will be remembered as a dedicated professional committed to upholding fairness in the workplace, in particular, dispute resolution.

Ms. Dimo served the country through various labour relations fora such as the Commission of Conciliation, Mediation and Arbitration, National Bargaining Council for Chemical Industry (NBCCI), Chemical Industries Education and Training Authority (CHIETA) and most recently the PSCBC.

“A mentor, friend and advocate for fairness in the workplace, Ms. Dimo played a crucial role in ensuring smooth public service wage negotiations between government and organized labour,” said Minister Buthelezi.

“Throughout her career, Ms. Dimo, worked tirelessly to mediate between employers and organized labour, seeking practical solutions that were mutually beneficial to all parties. She will be sorely missed,” added Minister Buthelezi.
